Dear Michael,

I am writing to document the course work plan we have discussed and decided upon.

This past academic year 2002-2003, you successfully completed the following:

Histology & Cell Structure
ICM A - Introduction to the Patient
ICM B - The Clinical Experience
Clinical & Developmental Anatomy
Disease Mechanisms
CV Physiology
Principles of Preventive Medicine
Principles of Pharmacology
Renal Disease

This current academic year 2003-2004, you will enter the Class of 2007, and your schedule will include the following:

Molecular & Cellular Foundations of Medicine, Units 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 (Exams 4, 5 and 6)
Endocrine Systems
Reproductive Systems & Human Sexuality
ICM-Clinical Examination
Cardiovascular System
Pulmonary System
GI Liver System
Hematological System

The by-laws of the Committee on Student Promotions and Professional Standards can be found at www.aecom.yu.edu/ooe/students, and hard copies are available in my office, Belfer 210.

Please be very careful in planning for your examinations, and family and friends must accept (and hopefully understand) that your focus must be firmly on your schoolwork. Avail yourself of our Cognitive Skills Program and the tutoring services provided by Dr. Mildred Witt (718-430-3154). Extra-curricular activities should be kept to an absolute minimum, or undertaken with a full awareness of the risks involved. In other words, I urge you to make good decisions, there is a lot at stake here.

I urge you to make a stand that your schoolwork be your highest priority. You should study as much as you possibly can, day-in-and-day-out, and working with study partners that support one another's motivation is a great help.

Come in to see me and/or the rest of the second floor team anytime you need us.

Sincerely,
